

- They can get help on projects: the company is opened in such a way that they allow or get ideas from out of the company. For example, the interns could actively share ideas on a particular software they want to develop or build.
- Propose working groups.
- Get testers for new ideas of products.
- Create a team to work on an idea: we actively took part in the analysis of two huge projects, like the school management system of landmark metropolitan university and also an app called "lost but found".
- share expertise or experience in a particular field.

Threats of the company: Threats refer to factors that have the potential to harm an organization/company. The threats of Landmark Technologies are as follows;

Competition: Landmark Technologies faces competition with other Tech companies that offers the same service as Landmark Technologies.

Economic and political crisis: Landmark technologies has a great threat because it operates on a minus one day (Monday to be precise) due to the Anglophone crisis. So there is general ghost town on Mondays and also periodic lockdowns.

4.2 Challenges Encountered During the Internship and how they were overcome.

Due to the fact that every company or establishment must encounter some problems or difficulties in one way or the other, be it political, economic, social and technological factors, so do human beings encounter problems. Some of the problems I faced as an intern during the whole process are: -

- Misunderstanding between co-interns: Most often there are usually arguments between the co-interns especially when a task is not well understood or when a task was on process. For example, during the analysis of the system. This was overcome by learning how to be submissive.
- Distractions: There was usually noise in the area since there was usually noise from generators due to constant power failure. Also, there was ongoing preparatory classes on campus so the other students often missed their class rooms and enter into the working area. The office door was always closed to minimise the outside noise and also a post with the label "no direct entry" was placed at the door to keep the other students away.
